

TALL BUILDINGS SURPRISE PRINCE

Woolworth Structure In New York Holds His Attention.

GETS GREAT WELCOME

Gotham Turns Out To Do
Honor to Royal Visitor —Formally Received.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Edward, prince of Wales, came to New York today on the final lap of his first American visit and received a welcome which pale even the fire-mountain ovations with which he was acclaimed in Canada.

From the battery where the royal visitor landed to Grant's tomb, on the upper stretches of Riverside drive, New Yorkers turned out to give the youthful heir to Britain's throne a vociferous and wholly American greeting.

Up the deep Broadway canyon, between towering skyscrapers on each side, the party drove to the city hall. Thousands lined the curbs and fought with the police to get better vantage points. From the office windows high above the streets there was a torrent of ticker tape, torn newspapers and confetti thrown down on the slowly moving procession. When the prince's car reached city hall it looked like it had been through a snowstorm.

The prince did not exactly understand it all at first. He sat in his car and viewed with amazement the fluttering storm of paper. Then he seemed to grasp the fact that it was a carnival affair and by the time the party had reached Wall street he was on his feet, saluting right and left and smiling and waving to the thousands of girl clerks who jammed the windows. He apparently enjoyed it immensely.

The prince exchanged greetings with the crowd until the lofty dome of the Woolworth building broke into view and right then and there his royal majesty lost interest in the crowd and gazed upward at the huge building. It was the tallest building he had ever seen and he had hard work tearing his eyes from the rest of the way to city hall.

He was frank in his staring and he even turned and stole a couple more looks while going up the steps of the hall.

When the prince finally made his escape into the quiet precincts of the hall, Mayor Hylan met him and took him to the official reception room where he was formally welcomed by the mayor and by Francis Hugo, secretary of state of New York.

He was presented with a huge American flag and the freedom of the city.

The prince was distinctly nervous from the noise and unaccustomed reception which he had received all along the line.

"I am very proud," he said, in response. "I have been made a freeman of the city of New York and I thank you most sincerely for the honor which you have conferred upon me."

Food Prices Jumping Still Except Steaks Which Are On Decline

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Prices of many articles of food increased in August, but in most cities beef prices showed declines. A report today by the bureau of labor statistics listed increases as follows:

Eggs and rice, 6 per cent each; potatoes and raisins, 4 per cent each; evaporated and fresh milk, coffee and prunes, 3 per cent; pork chops, butter, corn meal, rolled oats, navy beans and sugar, 2 per cent; and canned salmon, oleomargarine, cheese, broad, macaroni and oranges 1 per cent. Ham, nut margarine and tea showed an increase of less than five-tenths of 1 per cent.

GOVERNMENT MOVES TO PREVENT FAMINE

CONTINUED FROM PAGE ONE

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 18.—Recommendation that H. F. Bush, regional railroad director for the southwest, discontinue all unnecessary train service in the region during the emergency created by the coal strike, was made today by the southwestern regional coal committee.

Mr. Bush is in Chicago and it could not be ascertained what action he would take on the matter.

P. H. Greenlaw, chairman of the coal committee, said he had received reports from many parts of the region that the committee's request that non-essential lighting and heating be curtailed would be complied with.

The committee requested the use of coke whenever possible and asked merchants, building owners and householders to maintain a heating temperature not exceeding 68 degrees.

Field Marshal von Hindenburg, who was the star witness today, had before him the task of answering six questions which were prepared beforehand by the subcommittee. Among other things he said that Germany did not desire war and that Germany's defensive strength from the very start was unfavorable. It was the lack of co-operation between the army and "interests at home" which had influenced the defeat of Germany.

"I know with absolute certainty that neither the people, the kaiser nor the government desired war, for the government knew better than others Germany's tremendously difficult position in a war against the entente," von Hindenburg said.

Germany's defensive strength, said the field marshal, was unfavorable as possible from the start. It might be left to history to decide why Germany's peace policy had failed.

"If the military prepared for the possibility of an unavoidable war," he continued, "that was only its duty toward the nation. If there had been solid, united co-operation between the army and homeland we could have attained victory."

At the United States.

"While with the enemy, notwithstanding its superiority, all parties were united more firmly in the determination to be victorious with us, although we were numerically inferior, interests at home made their influence felt and this state of affairs led to the breaking of the will to victory."

In all great decisions Ludendorff found the corridors leading to the committee room crowded to the doors with admirers and others, who had worked in full accord from August 29, 1918, to the end, he said.

"We considered unrestricted submarine war imperative immediately we entered the supreme command," said the field marshal. "When 1917 came we could no longer permit our gallant soldiers to be bombarded with American ammunition and their wives and children starved by the blockade. The U-boat war was the only means to oppose those conditions."

von Hindenburg and Ludendorff found the corridors leading to the committee room crowded to the doors with admirers and others, who

had worked in full accord from August 29, 1918, to the end, he said.

"We considered unrestricted submarine war imperative immediately we entered the supreme command," said the field marshal. "When 1917 came we could no longer permit our gallant soldiers to be bombarded with American ammunition and their wives and children starved by the blockade. The U-boat war was the only means to oppose those conditions."

von Hindenburg and Ludendorff found the corridors leading to the committee room crowded to the doors with admirers and others, who

had worked in full accord from August 29, 1918, to the end, he said.

"We considered unrestricted submarine war imperative immediately we entered the supreme command," said the field marshal. "When 1917 came we could no longer permit our gallant soldiers to be bombarded with American ammunition and their wives and children starved by the blockade. The U-boat war was the only means to oppose those conditions."

von Hindenburg and Ludendorff found the corridors leading to the committee room crowded to the doors with admirers and others, who

had worked in full accord from August 29, 1918, to the end, he said.

"We considered unrestricted submarine war imperative immediately we entered the supreme command," said the field marshal. "When 1917 came we could no longer permit our gallant soldiers to be bombarded with American ammunition and their wives and children starved by the blockade. The U-boat war was the only means to oppose those conditions."

von Hindenburg and Ludendorff found the corridors leading to the committee room crowded to the doors with admirers and others, who

had worked in full accord from August 29, 1918, to the end, he said.

"We considered unrestricted submarine war imperative immediately we entered the supreme command," said the field marshal. "When 1917 came we could no longer permit our gallant soldiers to be bombarded with American ammunition and their wives and children starved by the blockade. The U-boat war was the only means to oppose those conditions."

von Hindenburg and Ludendorff found the corridors leading to the committee room crowded to the doors with admirers and others, who

had worked in full accord from August 29, 1918, to the end, he said.

"We considered unrestricted submarine war imperative immediately we entered the supreme command," said the field marshal. "When 1917 came we could no longer permit our gallant soldiers to be bombarded with American ammunition and their wives and children starved by the blockade. The U-boat war was the only means to oppose those conditions."

von Hindenburg and Ludendorff found the corridors leading to the committee room crowded to the doors with admirers and others, who

had worked in full accord from August 29, 1918, to the end, he said.

"We considered unrestricted submarine war imperative immediately we entered the supreme command," said the field marshal. "When 1917 came we could no longer permit our gallant soldiers to be bombarded with American ammunition and their wives and children starved by the blockade. The U-boat war was the only means to oppose those conditions."

von Hindenburg and Ludendorff found the corridors leading to the committee room crowded to the doors with admirers and others, who

had worked in full accord from August 29, 1918, to the end, he said.

"We considered unrestricted submarine war imperative immediately we entered the supreme command," said the field marshal. "When 1917 came we could no longer permit our gallant soldiers to be bombarded with American ammunition and their wives and children starved by the blockade. The U-boat war was the only means to oppose those conditions."

von Hindenburg and Ludendorff found the corridors leading to the committee room crowded to the doors with admirers and others, who

had worked in full accord from August 29, 1918, to the end, he said.

"We considered unrestricted submarine war imperative immediately we entered the supreme command," said the field marshal. "When 1917 came we could no longer permit our gallant soldiers to be bombarded with American ammunition and their wives and children starved by the blockade. The U-boat war was the only means to oppose those conditions."

von Hindenburg and Ludendorff found the corridors leading to the committee room crowded to the doors with admirers and others, who

had worked in full accord from August 29, 1918, to the end, he said.

"We considered unrestricted submarine war imperative immediately we entered the supreme command," said the field marshal. "When 1917 came we could no longer permit our gallant soldiers to be bombarded with American ammunition and their wives and children starved by the blockade. The U-boat war was the only means to oppose those conditions."

von Hindenburg and Ludendorff found the corridors leading to the committee room crowded to the doors with admirers and others, who

had worked in full accord from August 29, 1918, to the end, he said.

had worked in full accord from August 29, 1918, to the end, he said.

"We considered unrestricted submarine war imperative immediately we entered the supreme command," said the field marshal. "When 1917 came we could no longer permit our gallant soldiers to be bombarded with American ammunition and their wives and children starved by the blockade. The U-boat war was the only means to oppose those conditions."

von Hindenburg and Ludendorff found the corridors leading to the committee room crowded to the doors with admirers and others, who

had worked in full accord from August 29, 1918, to the end, he said.

"We considered unrestricted submarine war imperative immediately we entered the supreme command," said the field marshal. "When 1917 came we could no longer permit our gallant soldiers to be bombarded with American ammunition and their wives and children starved by the blockade. The U-boat war was the only means to oppose those conditions."

von Hindenburg and Ludendorff found the corridors leading to the committee room crowded to the doors with admirers and others, who

had worked in full accord from August 29, 1918, to the end, he said.

"We considered unrestricted submarine war imperative immediately we entered the supreme command," said the field marshal. "When 1917 came we could no longer permit our gallant soldiers to be bombarded with American ammunition and their wives and children starved by the blockade. The U-boat war was the only means to oppose those conditions."

von Hindenburg and Ludendorff found the corridors leading to the committee room crowded to the doors with admirers and others, who

had worked in full accord from August 29, 1918, to the end, he said.

"We considered unrestricted submarine war imperative immediately we entered the supreme command," said the field marshal. "When 1917 came we could no longer permit our gallant soldiers to be bombarded with American ammunition and their wives and children starved by the blockade. The U-boat war was the only means to oppose those conditions."

von Hindenburg and Ludendorff found the corridors leading to the committee room crowded to the doors with admirers and others, who

had worked in full accord from August 29, 1918, to the end, he said.

"We considered unrestricted submarine war imperative immediately we entered the supreme command," said the field marshal. "When 1917 came we could no longer permit our gallant soldiers to be bombarded with American ammunition and their wives and children starved by the blockade. The U-boat war was the only means to oppose those conditions."

von Hindenburg and Ludendorff found the corridors leading to the committee room crowded to the doors with admirers and others, who

had worked in full accord from August 29, 1918, to the end, he said.

"We considered unrestricted submarine war imperative immediately we entered the supreme command," said the field marshal. "When 1917 came we could no longer permit our gallant soldiers to be bombarded with American ammunition and their wives and children starved by the blockade. The U-boat war was the only means to oppose those conditions."

von Hindenburg and Ludendorff found the corridors leading to the committee room crowded to the doors with admirers and others, who

had worked in full accord from August 29, 1918, to the end, he said.

"We considered unrestricted submarine war imperative immediately we entered the supreme command," said the field marshal. "When 1917 came we could no longer permit our gallant soldiers to be bombarded with American ammunition and their wives and children starved by the blockade. The U-boat war was the only means to oppose those conditions."

von Hindenburg and Ludendorff found the corridors leading to the committee room crowded to the doors with admirers and others, who

had worked in full accord from August 29, 1918, to the end, he said.

"We considered unrestricted submarine war imperative immediately we entered the supreme command," said the field marshal. "When 1917 came we could no longer permit our gallant soldiers to be bombarded with American ammunition and their wives and children starved by the blockade. The U-boat war was the only means to oppose those conditions."

von Hindenburg and Ludendorff found the corridors leading to the committee room crowded to the doors with admirers and others, who

had worked in full accord from August 29, 1918, to the end, he said.

"We considered unrestricted submarine war imperative immediately we entered the supreme command," said the field marshal. "When 1917 came we could no longer permit our gallant soldiers to be bombarded with American ammunition and their wives and children starved by the blockade. The U-boat war was the only means to oppose those conditions."

von Hindenburg and Ludendorff found the corridors leading to the committee room crowded to the doors with admirers and others, who

had worked in full accord from August 29, 1918, to the end, he said.

"We considered unrestricted submarine war imperative immediately we entered the supreme command," said the field marshal. "When 1917 came we could no longer permit our gallant soldiers to be bombarded with American ammunition and their wives and children starved by the blockade. The U-boat war was the only means to oppose those conditions."

von Hindenburg and Ludendorff found the corridors leading to the committee room crowded to the doors with admirers and others, who

had worked in full accord from August 29, 1918, to the end, he said.

"We considered unrestricted submarine war imperative immediately we entered the supreme command," said the field marshal. "When 1917 came we could no longer permit our gallant soldiers to be bombarded with American ammunition and their wives and children starved by the blockade. The U-boat war was the only means to oppose those conditions."

von Hindenburg and Ludendorff found the corridors leading to the committee room crowded to the doors with admirers and others, who

had worked in full accord from August 29, 1918, to the end, he said.

"We considered unrestricted submarine war imperative immediately we entered the supreme command," said the field marshal. "When 1917 came we could no longer permit our gallant soldiers to be bombarded with American ammunition and their wives and children starved by the blockade. The U-boat war was the only means to oppose those conditions."

von Hindenburg and Ludendorff found the corridors leading to the committee room crowded to the doors with admirers and others, who

The Greatest Breakfast

says Bobby

Nothing made that beats

POST TOASTIES

Peoples Exchange

"A Strictly Non-Union Store"

or Mildly Stated "A Strictly Merit Institution"

We do not say that this is a strictly nonunion store merely to antagonize union men or their sympathizers, but we simply say it for the reason that it is the truth, and that it is perfectly within the law for a man to run a nonunion store.

If I had the control of words in the English language to more forcibly express my sentiment against the radical elements and the unjust measures they resort to than I have in the past, I would gladly do so.

We gladly thank the good people of Tulsa and vicinity for their liberal patronage and their encouraging words, and we feel assured that if they are as loyal to every other merchant in Tulsa as they have been to us, that organized labor's efforts and money will be wasted and in the near future completely exhausted. Then the people can go about their business on the old-fashioned American system which is to do as much as we can with as little waste as possible. Yours for a greater Tulsa and a greater Peoples Exchange.

These Prices Are Good for All This Week

CRISCO	33c	5 lb. Cherries, solid pack, 30c
1-lb. size, per can	46c	Armour's Veribest Milk, small cans, 96 to the case, $6.50
1 1/2-lb. size, per can	98c	Armour's Veribest Milk, tall cans, 48 to the case, $6.75
3-lb. size, per can	$1.95	Tall cans fancy pink Salmon, per can 19c
6-lb. size, per can	$3.50	Lamb Stew, per lb. 10c
Swift's Premium or Wilson's Certified skinned Hams, whole or half, per lb. 35c		Lamb Chops, per lb. 15c
Swift's Premium or Wilson's Certified Bacon, whole or half, per lb. 47c		Leg of Lamb, per lb. 18c
Sliced Bacon, 1-lb. cartons, 54c		Pork Shoulder, whole or half, per lb. 24c
Fresh Side Pork, per lb. 28c		Pork Chops, per lb. 28c
Dry Salt Bellies, per lb. 24c		Sirloin Steak, per lb. 25c
Frankfurters, per lb. 20c		Porterhouse Steak, per lb. 25c
1-lb. box Breakfast Sausage, per box 35c		Round Steak, per lb. 25c
Blue Ribbon colored Oleomargarine, per lb. (Every pound guaranteed) 38c		Chuck Steak, per lb. 15c
Good Creamery Butter, 15 oz. net, per pkg. 67c		Ox Tongue, per lb. 25c
Shoulder of Lamb, whole or half, per lb. 12 1/2c		Sausage, per lb. 10c
No. 2 Tomatoes, case of 2 doz. $2.75		Hamburger, per lb. 10c
No. 2 Tomatoes, 12 cans $1.40		Quart jar pure Jelly 55c
Elgin Cream Corn, case $3.20		1 gallon cans 50c
Elgin Cream Corn, 12 cans $1.60		Tomatoes 64c
Kellogg's Krumbles, pkg. 9c		1 lb. Bonita yellow cling peaches heavy syrup, one doz. $2.60
Post Toasties, pkg. 12c		Salt, 2 pkgs. 5c
100 bars Swift's white Laundry Soap $5		2 1/2 lb. can Satisfaction brand Apricots, each 20c
Swift's Arrow Borax 6c		1 gallon Brookdale Royal Cherries 95c
Soap, bar 64c		Gallon Apples 44c
Prunes 27c		Gallon Apples, case of 4 gallons $2.55
Large Oats, pkg. 13c		Apple Butter, gallon cans 79c
Small Oats, pkg. 25c		Solid pack peeled peaches, gallon cans 79c
Two for 39c		Solid pack, gallon Apricots $1
Satisfaction Coffee, per lb. 48c		Oregon solid pack Blackberries, per gal. $1.40
Monsoon Coffee, per lb. 25c		N. Y. Cherries, solid pack, per gal. $1.40
Two 6-oz. glasses Jelly 98c		Hale's Leader, yellow cling Peaches, heavy syrup, 2 1/2 lb. cans, per doz. $4.35
10 lb. Navy Beans, best quality, 39c
43 oz. Preserves, 1 jar 39c

Peoples Exchange

111-113 East First Street

Mental Work Needs a Stomach

Great Mistake to Imagine You Can Work Better and Faster on the Starvation Plan. Eat What You Like But Follow With Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Mental work uses up energy fast. And energy comes from food. To get little or nothing in order to do more work is a fallacy that has created an army of dyspeptics. A better plan is to eat the regular portions of food such as make up the average meal and follow each meal with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

You will then get a double benefit—energy from food and assimilability with meals, for as a rule, the food eaters, or those who skip meals, get into a bad habit, a rat, of hermit-like isolation do not be afraid of gasiness, sour stomach, heartburn, heavy feeling or coated tongue after meals. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets arouse the stomach to secrete the juices necessary to relieve these troubles that so frequently distress the mental worker. They contain harmless ingredients which act with an alkaline effect, so you may eat the rich things of the banquet or the savory sausage for breakfast with utmost freedom.

Get a 50-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store. Eat freely of what you like and you will do more and better work than on a skippy diet. Try this plan. Adv.

O.E. Havens

117 EAST FIRST
Phone 1497

HAMS

Big Ham Sale This Week

Large Hams per pound	27 3/4c
Swift's Premium Ham, lb.	32 3/4c
Armour's Star Hams, lb.	32 3/4c
Swift's Premium Bacon, lb.	45c
St. Louis Independent Bacon, per pound	40c
Oxford Bacon per pound	35c
Nice Boiling Beef per pound	11c
Pork Chops per pound	29c
Nice Beef Roast, lb.	13 1/2c
Nice Pork Roast, lb.	27 1/2c
Compound per pound	26 1/2c
100-lbs. Compound	$26
10-lb. Pail Pure Lard	$2.95
5-lb. Pail Pure Lard	$1.50

These prices are very low and you should take advantage of them.

Just received a car load of flour and will sell for a few days

100-lb. Best Hard Wheat Flour	$5.85
100-lbs. Potatoes	$3.50
1 bushel 60-lbs. Potatoes	$2.70
Half bu. 30 lbs. Potatoes	$1.05
One Peck Potatoes	55c
1 Case, 2 doz. Iowa Corn	$2.95
1 doz. Cans Iowa Corn	$1.50
1 Case, 2 doz. Sweet Peas	$3.25
1 doz. Sweet Peas	$1.65
One Case 2 doz. No. 2 1/2 Tomatoes for	$3.50
1 doz No. 2 1/2 Tomatoes	$1.75
1 Case 2 doz. No. 2 1/2 Apricots	$6.00
1 doz. No. 2 1/2 Peaches	$3.15
1 Case, 2 doz. No. 2 1/2 Apricots	$6.00
1 doz. No. 2 1/2 Apricots	$3.15
One 25c K. C. Baking Powder	20c
Two 30c cans Calumet	45c
One 10-lb can Calumet	$2.00
20-lbs. Split Pinto Beans	$1.00
3-lbs. Good Coffee	$1.00
10-lbs. Bulk Macaroni	$1.00
10 Bars P. & G. Soap	75c
10 Bars Crystal White Soap	60c
10 Bars Silk Soap	50c

Phone your order in. We deliver $10.00 order and over. Special attention given to mail orders with money orders attached.

O.E. Havens

Grocery and Meat Market

$2,500.00 Automobile FREE!

That Big Six 1920 Model Studebaker is now on exhibition in front of the North Main Department Store, 107 1/2 and 109 North Main.

This morning at 9 o'clock sharp the commercial sensation of the world's greatest oil capital swings into action. Your last chance to get free entry.

The first five hundred people entering the store this morning after the door is open can enter the great sensational race free.

This is positively the last free offer that will be made. The car will be given away December 31st, as advertised.

$75,000.00 of the World's Best Merchandise Offered at Public Sale, Beginning This Morning at 9 o'clock sharp

The following items are for Today only. Watch the papers for our daily specials:

25 Oil Men's Raincoats, worth $15.00; on sale Wednesday morning $11.98 only, at

100 dozen Men's All-Wool Shirts, khaki color; 7.50 value $5.48

100 dozen Men's Flannel Shirts; $4 value, for $2.25 only 25 Ladies' Silk Plush Coats; $39.75 $75 val.

200 Boys' All-wool Suits; values $8.00 to $22.50, on sale $4.98 to $12.98

100 pairs of Ladies' Shoes, fine soft kids; $15.00 value $8.98

100 pairs Children's Shoes, $1.98 and up on sale

500 Misses' and Children's Wool and Gingham Dresses on sale 98c and up

1,000 Suits of Boys' and Children's Underwear 98c and up

100 dozen Men's $2.50 value Union Suits $1.79 for